BOSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT CADET PROGRAM

BostonPolice
DEPARTMENT

One Schroeder Plaza
Boston, Massachusetts 02120-2014

William B. Evans
Commissioner

Martin J. Walsh
Mayor

WHAT IS IT?

The City of Boston's Police Cadet Program is a paid, benefitted, civilian position within the Boston Police Department. With a two year commitment, this program is primarily geared toward individuals with interest in pursuing a career in law enforcement and experiential learning in our community policing model. Under the direction of the Superintendent of the Bureau of Professional Development, Cadets are provided classroom training and cooperative education in addition to specific on-the-job training.

The Program aims to develop and refine qualities such as maturity, responsibility, character, team work, leadership, civic duty, and personal health & fitness.

Upon completion of the two year program and successful passing status of the Civil Service Police Exam, a Cadet may receive preference on the list of eligible candidates for a police recruit class.

FROM CADET TO SUCCESS

Cadets serve as an extension of our officers, gaining valuable insight into our community policing model. In addition to general duties, they are actively engaged with community groups, professional development workshops, and training.

Many of our Cadets choose to pursue careers as Police Officers. A few notable, former Boston Police Cadets include our current Commissioner, William Evans, Superintendent-in-Chief, William Gross, and Superintendent of the Bureau of Professional Development, Lisa Holmes.
